Embroidery ring as ring storage

Instructions No. 2519

Difficulty: Advanced

Working time: 4 Hours

Of course, the rings can't be missing from a wedding. Instead of a traditional ring cushion, you can also use this beautiful idea with the embroidery ring as a ring storage and then use it as a personalised keepsake. Let your day be something special.

First draw a circle on the fabric with the Stroke-Ex pencil so that it has a smaller diameter than the embroidery ring itself. You can now arrange flowers and leaves on this circle. These can be embroidered with straight stitch, daisy stitch, rose stitch or similar.

Next, for the lettering, you need to connect the first letters of the bride and groom with a heart and embroider them. The Stroke-Ex pen is helpful here for a neat result. Next, the wedding date is also first prescribed with the Strich-Ex pen and then embroidered.

Finally, for the ring attachment, you need to stitch a piece of satin ribbon to the centre of the fabric with matching colour embroidery floss. Now you can attach the rings to it with a bow.
